ESTABLISHED 1846. NEWPORT, R. I., SATURDAY, JULY 8, 1911. PRICE TWO CENTS.

HERE'S WHERE APPEARANCE COUNTS.

The ice and the iceman do their part, we really couldn't do without them, but why is it the girl in white always brings a breeze with her—surely not because she is always carrying the ice water pitcher. It's just because she looks so cool, and that's more than half the secret of our summer comfort—the looks.

Summer Rugs

We've a splendid assortment of breeze-laden rugs—pure white ground with odd designs woven in beautiful shades of blue or green. Nothing could possibly add more to the cooling appearance of porch or bedroom; they add an artistic touch too that's truly delightful—not at all expensive either.

IRELAND WELCOMES KING AND QUEEN.

Visit of Royal Party Made Occasion for Counter-Demonstration.

DUBLIN, Ireland, July 8.—King George and Queen Mary received a quiet but cordial welcome to Ireland today. The attitude of the people is well expressed by a banner stretched outside the city council hall at Pembroke, a suburb of the capital, which refused to present an official address to the king, reading: "Welcome. We want home rule."

The Lord Mayor of Dublin, whose threat that he would present an address to His Majesty, despite the contrary decision of the corporation that it was feared it would lead to trouble, remained at home.

The king's reply to the address presented on his landing at Kingstown, in which he said, "I and the queen hastened our visit to the Irish people, in whose welfare our interest is deep and abiding," had the effect of establishing an immediate friendship between Their Majesties and the men lining the streets.

The royal party were received on shore by the lord lieutenant of Ireland and driven in state carriages to the castle, where apartments had been specially prepared for their occupancy during their stay here.

The occasion was made a holiday and the streets were crowded with people who had come to see what to them was an interesting pageant. Students from Trinity College gathered in force on College green and gave their Majesties a loyal and enthusiastic welcome. The threatened counter-demonstration did not materialize. The majority of those who looked on did not so much as raise their hats at the approach of the Imperial ones, and as soon as the procession had passed the crowd walked quietly away.

The town had been prettily decorated by a non-political committee, supported by citizens. The Nationalists adopted a passively friendly attitude, and did not participate in the official receptions or interfere with them. They decorated their premises—always, however, with the Irish flag. If more than one flag was shown the second was the American emblem, so that there was a liberal display of the Stars and Stripes. In the general decoration there was a discreet intermingling of orange and green.

The police kept quietly in the background, the saddlers doing the work ordinarily entrusted to the police force. There was little of this work to be done, as order reigned everywhere.

The royal yacht Victoria and Albert, with King George and Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary on board, anchored in Kingstown harbor last evening. Every available point along the breakwater and on the landing stages was crowded with cheering Dublinites, who on seeing the king and the Prince of Wales on the bridge of the yacht burst forth singing the national anthem. The first division of the home fleet anchored just outside

TECHNICALITY FAILS M'NAMARA.

Los Angeles Court Decides It Has Jurisdiction in Murder Case.

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—The skirmish in the desperate legal battle which is to be waged in behalf of John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, accused of complicity in the Los Angeles Times dynamiting, was won today by the prosecution.

The technicality raised in behalf of the accused labor leader, following closely upon an announcement that a full and speedy trial would be courted, was brushed aside by Judge Walter Bordwell, who sustained the objection to the plea of no jurisdiction, introduced by McNamara's counsel, and ruled that the Los Angeles courts have full authority to conduct a trial on the 19 charges of murder.

As to the allegations that extradition had ben accomplished by irregularities, or what the defense termed fraud, Judge Bordwell said it was not in his province to enter into the question of how a prisoner was brought into the jurisdiction of his court, but to try him after he arrived here. It was agreed that the same ruling should apply to all the pleas of no jurisdiction.

Replying to the question of the prosecution, if it desired to have John P. McNamara plead to charges against him, the defense answered by filing motions to quash the indictments, the motions being the same as those filed yesterday in the case of his brother, James B. McNamara, so far as the murder charges were concerned. The prosecution then moved that all affidavits filed with the motions to quash be stricken from the records. Arguments will be made on this motion.

BULLDOG BARS FLIGHT.

Noses Into Atwood's Propeller and Causes Machine to Fall.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 7.—On Atwood's third attempt to ascend with Hamilton today for their flight to Washington, a gust of wind caught the machine and it plunged to the earth at the edge of the ocean. Neither of the men was hurt, nor was the machine damaged, but after making further attempts Atwood decided to give up for the day.

An inquisitive bulldog was the real cause for the flight being abandoned. The dog nosed into the whirling propeller as the machine was about to ascend and was killed, the contacts slightly splitting one of the blades. Hamilton fixed it with wire, but when they made their next flight Atwood found the lifting power had been affected and the machine landed at the edge of the water. A wave struck the machine and the salt water affected the engine. Efforts to rise into the air after that failed and the flight was called off.

HEAT RETARDS BUSINESS.

Despatches to Dun & Co. Show Trade is Fairly Maintained.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Despatches to R. G. Dunn & Co. state that while the extremely hot weather in many sections has retarded trade activity in some extent, business on the whole is fairly well maintained, considering that it is usually the season when the volume of trade is at its minimum. Boston reports the holiday and the extreme heat combined have made the week very dull, although this is regarded as temporary and the improvement is looked for later. Dry goods are quiet, but sales during the past month equal those of last year. Leather maintains its firm tone and the shoe trade has improved since the holiday.

Bank exchanges this week at all leading cities in the United States aggregate $2,829,157,397, a decrease as compared with the same week last year of 6.5 per cent.

"ESTHER DAMON."

Story of Two Social Outcasts and How They Made Good, by Mrs. Fremont Older.

"Esther Damon," by Mrs. Fremont Older, is not for those who enjoy only a simple love story or tale of adventure. It is a book which depicts the struggles of erring human nature, being a study of the fall and redemption of a man and woman, both outcasts from society. Sin is not condoned, but that one may break evil habits and rise out of the depths of despair and wretchedness, through the discipline of shame and sorrow, is the lesson taught. The scenes are laid in a New York upstate village not many years after the Civil war. There is a graphic picture of the Methodists of those days, whose narrow views of life and yet high state of spirituality made them a strange people. The Methodist minister and his wife have much to do with the events of the story.

Esther Damon is a beautiful, high-strung young girl, with great capacities for either happiness or suffering. She is the Methodist minister's daughter, but is unlike her stern father or her gentle mother. Both her parents are deeply religious, the minister, being true to his convictions of duty, and the mother a saint, who feels it incumbent upon her to seek the lost by praying and talking in saloons or taverns. Esther's natural inclinations for pretty clothes and for a college education are sternly repressed by her parents, who intend her for a missionary. The result of their decision is sorrow and heart-ache for both parents and daughter. Esther drinks the cup of shame and humiliation to its depths. In the years which follow, by the good counsel and fellowship of another, she carves out a life for herself, and finally becomes a missionary after all. At the very end there is a hint that greater happiness is in store for her.

The other outcast is Robert Orme, a young man of wealth and family, but who though dissipation wastes his fortune. How he conquers his weak will, gives up drinking and becomes a steady-going, industrious citizen makes interesting reading. Work is his salvation, and he starts a shop for furniture making. Believing that employers should divide their profits with their men, he sets up a little democracy of his own, the land, shops and estate to be owned and operated by all, he to have no more than his workers. He has strong views on this subject—"In an advanced state of civilization the business man of today would be as ashamed of his occupation as a burglar or pickpocket now is of his. I'll not profit by a system of robbery, even though legalized and established."

MIDDLETOWN.

Rev. John B. Diman Tendered Reception as a Welcome on Return From Europe.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

As a means of expressing the esteem in which Rev. John B. Diman is held in the community an informal reception was tendered him Friday evening at the Berkeley parish house by the parish of St. Columbu, the Berkeley Memorial Chapel. Rev. Mr. Diman returned this week from an eight months' trip through Europe and this occasion was taken to welcome him home.

The exercises were brief, including music in the early evening and words of welcome and greeting by Rev. Latta Griswold, rector of the Chapel, with a response of appreciation by Rev. Mr. Diman, who recalled his first years in Middletown and the members with whom he was then identified. Mr. Thomas Molden was mentioned in particular, whose absence through illness was regretted. The period of 15 years as a teacher was touched upon, five years having been spent while the school was located in Newport before St. George's was removed to Middletown. The shortness of the evening prevented more than a brief summary of the year's travels. Sicily, Rome and Pompeii were mentioned, and Rev. Mr. Diman gave an interesting, though brief, account of the coronation and life in and about London during that week.

A musical program was rendered by Miss Gladys Kaull of Newport and refreshments were served under the direction of Miss Nellie R. Peckham, assisted by the young people of the parish. The floral decorations were pleasing, red rambler roses being used in profusion. The fire place and mantel in the guild room were banked with elderberry blossoms and roses, and in the assembly hall the large auditorium was encircled with a vine effect of honeysuckle, with vases of roses placed at intervals. Strands of honeysuckle also encircled the memorial to the late Rev. Henry Morgan Stone in the men's room.

Rev. Edward E. Wells, the new pastor at the Methodist Episcopal Church and Mrs. Wells, were guests. The specially busy season detained many who would otherwise have been present. There was an attendance of about 75.

Mr. Raymond P. Chase, youngest son of Daniel M. and the late California Brown Chase, who died at the home of his father on Oliphant road, had been a great sufferer for six months, having had typhoid fever, diphtheria and lastly blood poison. The latter was thought to have resulted from the extraction of a tooth and the fact that the system was in a run-down condition. He was the youngest of three children and was born in Middletown, where he had always lived, assisting his father in carting for the farm.

Mrs. B. W. H. Peckham and Miss Eliza M. Peckham are spending a few days with their sister, Mrs. Phoebe C. Taber, in Newport.

Mrs. Lilla Greenman is to entertain Colonel William Barton Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. Wallace Peckham, at "Beauvoir," Indian avenue, this evening.

A number of telephones were put out of commission by the electrical storm of Thursday evening.

Mr. Harry Huntington has been in town a few days to oversee the opening of his father's summer home on Indian avenue. Professor John T. Huntington will arrive from Hartford about the middle of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Corey and their two children of Tiverton are guests of Mrs. Corey's sister, Mrs. Ida Calvert, on Green End avenue.

Mr. Thomas Molden of Third Beach road, who has been in ill health for a long period, has been confined to bed the past week. He suffers no pain, but experiences great weakness and can take nourishment only in a light form. The second son, Mr. Edward Molden, who is away from home, is expected from New York Monday, for a few days.

swered. It is, indeed, difficult to speak in terms appropriate to a judicial opinion of such legislation. It is so obviously arbitrary and without reference either to the regulation of the fisheries or to the protection of the people that it should not receive judicial approval."

Judge Blodgett further says: "It is intimated in the statement of the majority opinion that 'over the vast' domain without the territorial limits above defined, the state has no jurisdiction and the legislature no control, and the hardy fishermen of all countries, whether from New England or the Ionian Isles, may freely fish upon the shoals and ledges beneath the boundless sea for the crustaceans that may there be found, without let or hindrance. * * * On the vast highway of nations there is ample room and verge enough to exercise the trade of fishing to their hearts content, either in the capacity of employer or employed, and no question of citizenship or residence can arise to disturb them. It is hardly necessary to state that this privilege is either valuable or worthless. If there are no lobsters elsewhere than within our waters, the privilege to fish for them elsewhere is of no value; if they are in such abundance elsewhere restrictive legislation of this kind would seem to be unnecessary. A lobster is different from the clam and oyster; it ravels and moves about freely and is not confined to a bank or bed.

"In conclusion I am of the opinion that the test prescribed for eligibility to hold a license under this act is entirely unconnected with the protection of the lobster fishery or the protection of the people. It is a purely arbitrary requirement of the legislature, and is as obnoxious to the just requirements of legislation in that respect as would be the like requirement that man have red hair; and in respect of such limitation is wholly null and void."

SUNLIGHT AND THE SEA.

[Lewis Worthington Smith in Success Magazine.]

Sunlight and ships at sea,
Clouds as still as stars,
Out beyond the vast to-be
Of earth's horizon bars.
Take my hand and let us go
Where the winds may lead,
Earth and time are all we know;
Life is all we need.

Dawn-flush and flying foam,
Tides that beat and turn,
Now the vast beyond is home,
And there our altars burn.
Take my hand; our cottage hearth
Is flaming in your eyes,
Earth shall be our garden-garth
Our tent the summer skies.

FANCIES.

Never was a snow fall
That didn't melt away;
Never was a rain cloud
That really came to stay.
Never was a dry spell
That didn't yield at length,
So, cheer up, brother,
And show your moral strength;

Never was a cyclone
That didn't swiftly flit.
Never was a hailstorm
That didn't have to quit.
Never was a hot wave
That didn't have to cool,
So, cheer up, brother,
And observe the Golden Rule.
—[Washington Star.

Oh, how sticky, mean and horrid
Do we feel in weather torrid
Like this that we have lately had to stand.
Gone is all our zest for working,
We feel deucedly like shirking
And escaping to the ocean's breezy strand.

We go panting and perspiring,
Sweet oblivion desiring,
Or some country where we wouldn't slowly cook;
But, cheer up! We will not mind it—
Comfort, we can always find it
'Mong the Cs in Noah Webster's famous book.

THE NEWS IN PROVIDENCE.

THE MAINE'S MAGAZINES.

General Bixby's opinion that the Maine was destroyed by the explosion of her own magazines is not absolutely conclusive of the cause of the disaster, because there is no doubt that her magazines did explode; the controversy is over the cause of their explosion. The general intimates that the forward part of the ship is so completely destroyed that it is not likely that it can ever be determined whether there was an ouside cause for the explosion.

Yet General Bixby's opinion, together with the well reasoned convictions of Admiral Melville and other opinions of the same sort, must go far to shake the confidences of Americans in the correctness of the conduct of their government in 1898. No trace of any torpedo has been discovered. If none is discovered when the raising of the Maine is completed many Americans will feel considerable doubt whether there ever was a torpedo.

It will be remembered that our government never professed to regard the Madrid [illegible] government as directly responsible for the explosion. The most said on this point was that if Spain could not give protection to a visiting American war vessel in Havana harbor she must abandon Cuba. She stoutly denied that there was any outside explosion, and in that she had nearly all the foreign opinion with her. She asked that the disaster be referred to an impartial international commission, to ascertain the cause of the explosion, and agreed to submit to any verdict which such a commission might render. President McKinley refused to consider any such proposition, and yet it was not unreasonable. If the conditions had been reversed we should have felt grievously wronged at its rejection, but we were a great deal bigger than Spain and did not need to submit to arbitration. Our officers may have made as thorough an investigation as circumstances permitted and may have been impartial, but they were not disinterested. They would not have liked to confess that the magazines blew up of themselves or through any neglect.

TO UNHORSE THE MACHINE.

A recent writer in a publication of wide circulation said that at present in the large cities of this country the machine has a hold which it is practically impossible to break without breaking first the conditions under which the political system has been built up and is operated. The great evil, he declares, is that this system necessarily creates a large body of workers who are paid by the machine in coin, patronage or offices, and the inevitable result is the nomination largely of candidates for public office who are of the baser sort, who do not fairly represent the community and are not able to give it a decent business administration. The remedy, he asserts, is to remove this machinery, break up the system and give the choice of candidates indirectly into the hands of the people, so that there will be no body of men who are really party retainers who will be able to make nominations of men of their own kind, and then elect them because they are the only candidates for the positions.

This presents in a nutshell the situation as it is in the average city of the United States which has not already redeemed itself from the bondage of the political machine built up by those who are seeking to exploit the municipality for their own gain and political advantage. The reason why in many places men of inferior ability and unclean practices or reputation are elected to public office is because those who desire better things cannot help themselves until they break the machine, which is too strongly intrenched to be beaten until the people take matters into their own hands and themselves select men for office. This writer insists that the efforts at reform are usually made at the wrong end of the system and that is why they are not often attended by success for any great length of time. He declares that the attempt should be made to destroy the power of the machine, not by direct attacks upon it at the polls, but by the passage of laws which will make its existence impossible.

What is needed in this country for the improvement of municipal government is the election to city offices of men of large business capacity, who are accustomed to grapple with large interests, have been trained to see broadly, think accurately and plan and execute wisely. Under the existing political systems of the large cities it is not possible to induce men of that calibre to offer themselves for public service or to accept public office, even if the machine would allow them to be candidates. These men know only too well that if they were elected to the administrative body of their city they would be in a hopeless minority and must sit with men whose main interest is not the welfare of the people but to see that their constituents are given the small favors they expect in return for their votes at the polls. Men of large capacity will not squander their time and talents in such a way in the public service any more than they would do so in their business relations.

The remedy, then, lies in a change in the form of government to make it possible to secure the services of men capable of administering the affairs of the city in a business like way. That can be done by the commission plan or some modification of it which will make the administrative body small enough to give men of ability the power in it to accomplish large things for the city and not devote their time to the petty details of municipal affairs. To bring about this change it is necessary to make many others which will have the effect of breaking up party lines in city affairs and putting the government directly into the hands of the people, by giving them the opportunity to select candidates for themselves, with the knowledge that the election is not to be decided by the big body of party retainers who are kept in line by the judicious distribution of honors, petty offices, patronage or straight graft. With such changes as these the best fitted men can be chosen to manage the affairs of cities, but until such a change is made it will not be possible.

TO WED AND TO DIVORCE.

The First Methodist Episcopal Church in Chicago stands across the street from the court house. On one side of the street we have marriage and on the other side divorce. On one side of the street marriage, is a religious ceremony of a permanent character, with slight qualifications. On the other side it is a civil contract, voidable if either party fails to meet his or her engagements, and in addition to this is voidable if both parties tire of their bargain.

There are two continuous processions in Chicago, one of the single marching into church and coming out married and the other of the married marching into court and coming out single. The latter has of late become so great that there has been imminent danger that it would materially outnumber the other and the married population of Chicago would decrease.

To avert this it has been arranged to have clergymen in attendance at the Methodist church during the hours when marriage licenses are being issued and marriage ties are being severed in the court house. The people who have secured divorces and rush down to the marriage license bureau to obtain a permit to marry the third person who often accounts for the divorce will be able to secure marriage right across the street, under conditions better calculated to impress the participants with the sanctity of matrimony than the justice court or even the judge's chambers, where a large proportion of marriages occur.

The abolition of civil marriage is hardly practicable, and it must be admitted that a large proportion of persons married by ministers do not stay married. Yet marriage under the sanctions of the church would seem to offer better prospect of perpetuity than the marriage ceremony treated just like signing a deed or making an affidavit. At any rate, the First Methodist Church in Chicago will try to supply people coming away from the marriage license bureau with convenient facilities for religious marriage and a number of ministers have arranged to be in attendance in rotation so long as the court house is open.

Scarcely had the announcement been made that Secretary Meyer proposes to reduce the personnel and equipment of the Pensacola and New Orleans navy yards to a minimum than the representatives in Congress from Florida and Louisiana rush to the department and ask that enough work be distributed to each to keep them going at their full capacity. These navy yards, like some others, exist largely for patronage, and are hindrances rather than helps, but they have been kept in operation by the political activities of Senators and Representatives. It matters little that the department has reached the conclusion that from an economical and business point of view the yards should be diminished, in order to make them commensurate with their value. The local politicians wish them retained and run in full force, and thus far have succeeded in preventing their reduction or abandonment. Secretary Meyer has the right idea about these small navy yards, and sooner or later they will be abandoned.

Governor Wilson of New Jersey has been "docked" three days' salary, about $90, for being absent recently from the state on a lecturing trip in the West. This is the second time since January 1 that the state treasurer has refused to give the governor his full salary. The treasurer's action is based on a clause in the constitution which provides that during the absence of the governor of the state the president of the senate shall be the acting governor. His father was a member of the firm of A. T. & T. J. Usher, ship owners and importers in Bristol 30 years or more ago. Colonel Usher was interested more or less with that firm also, after he finished his education in the public schools of his native town. He was for many years, however, under various presidential administrations, deputy collector, with an office in the Bristol custom house. He retired for a number of years, following the term of President Cleveland, but a few years ago received re-appointment to his old position. He spent all his days in Bristol, with the exception of his service of full term in the Civil war. When a young man he enlisted in Company G, Second Rhode Island volunteers, June 5, 1861. He was promoted to sergeant, orderly sergeant and eventually to second lieutenant in the regiment; was acting adjutant when he was mustered out and saw much fighting, being at Chancellorsville, Malvern Hill, the Peninsular campaign and Gettysburg. He was a member of Babbitt Post, Grand Army of the Republic of Bristol and at the time of his death and for years subsequently was senior vice Commander. He was a member of the Bristol Train of Artillery Veteran Association.

The men employed by the department of public works of Providence, who are engaged in sweeping the streets in the central sections of the city here, made their appearance in yellow tan uniforms. The suits are conspicuous and can be seen at a considerable distance, thus making effective the intention of the department of so uniforming the employes that they will be immediately seen while at work in the streets and thus be avoided by automobilists and drivers of other vehicles. The uniform is of yellow tan, consisting of long, loose trousers, square cut, single-breasted sack coat and sombrero. When the proposition was first made thus to uniform the employes of the street cleaning department there was a protest from officers of the Rhode Island National Guard, who claimed that the suit would be mistaken for that of the militia. They were assured that the uniforms of the street employes would be distinctive enough not to be mistaken for the militia, and there is no doubt about this.

Five members of the class of 1911, Brown University—James C. Archie of Westerly; Jacob M. Howarth of Swansea, James T. O'Neil of Amesbury, Mass., Seward T. Jarvis of Somerville, Mass., and Erwin C. Thompkins of Avon, Ill.—will begin their business careers in the near future with the Swift Packing Company of Chicago. The positions were obtained through F. S. Hayward, secretary of the Swift Company, who visited the university recently for the purpose of securing young men for service with the company. Another 1911 man, A. L. Breckinridge of Providence, may also enter the employ of the same concern. Four of the number—Archie, Jarvis, Howarth and O'Neil—will be employed as mechanical engineers, while Mr. Thompkins will learn the meat-packing end of the business. Howarth and O'Neil begin their duties July 17 and the others August 1.

Four More Deaths from Heat in Providence, Making the Total 27.

Shortage in Shellfish Supply and Milk Famine Feared—The Gambling Issue in Cranston.

Four more deaths were added Friday to the heat wave's toll in Providence, making a total of 27 during the week, despite the fact that the temperature failed to go above 81 during the day. Several more prostrations were reported Thursday and only two of the deaths occurred Friday. The thermometer failed by 16 degrees to equal the record maximum set Thursday, and the comparative coolness came as a great boon to humanity. The deaths from heat reported Friday were as follows: James Peters, died in ambulance on way to hospital; William Murdock, 76, died suddenly; Michael Montague, 65, at hospital; Joseph McElroy, 38, at hospital.

The fish dealers of Providence were brought face to face Friday with a shortage in their supply of shellfish, due to the excessive heat of the earlier part of the week. This was especially the case in regard to clams and quahaugs, particularly the former, as these are so much softer than the "round clam" that they are more susceptible to heat and do not keep so long. So difficult is it to ship clams during the hot weather that many of the smaller dealers were entirely without either open or shell clams Friday, notwithstanding it was the day of the week known as "fish day." Even the larger dealers who daily receive from their various sources of supply many barrels of clams were unable to meet all demands made upon them.

A milk famine, such as has not been known in years, is threatening Providence, made imminent by the long heated term during which there has been practically no rain. The use of milk as a food article has increased abnormally, and at the same time the drought has decreased the supply from 15 to 25 per cent. Eighty thousand quarts of milk are daily consumed in Providence on the average, but the largely decreased supply and the increased demand have together given rise to a shortage of between 30,000 and 35,000 quarts.

That the city council of Cranston is not protecting gambling interests, and that it recognizes reports of gambling, only by the prosecution for libel of those circulating them, is the gist of a statement sent to Governor Pothier by Mayor Sullivan of Cranston in reply to a letter from the governor calling the mayor's attention to reports of gambling in Cranston. The governor's letter says he expects only co-operation in trying to stamp out gambling, but in case this is not furnished he feels it a duty to take such measures as may be necessary. Cranston is mentioned in the governor's letter as "one of the places" where gambling is alleged to be allowed to flourish.

A new postal savings bank is to be established in connection with the postoffice in Warren. Postmaster Benjamin B. Martin is under instructions, received Friday from the Postoffice Department, to open a postal savings bank there Thursday, July 27. Postmaster Martin has made and of the arrangements, and received some of the paper and books to be used in the issuing of certificates of deposit, the sale of postal savings stamps and the disposal of government bonds of various denominations. He has yet to determine whether he will install the office in the building with the postoffice or secure additional room adjoining the present office. An inspector will be at the office in a few days to recommend the preliminary work.

Colonel Thomas F. Usher, former deputy collector of the port of Bristol and a veteran of the Civil war, in which he saw service both in the ranks and as an officer, died Friday at the home of his only son, C. Herman Usher, in Bristol. Colonel Usher, who acquired that rank as commanding officer of the Bristol Train of Artillery many years ago, had been ill for the past two years, though he did not give up active business until last December. He was 74 years of age, being born in Bristol February 1, 1837, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Usher.

CONANICUT YACHT CULB RACE.

Four Classes Entered, Including Motorboats—The Wabum Wins by a Minute in Cat Contest.

The first weekly race of the Conanicut Yacht Club was held today, there being four classes, including one for motorboats. The knockabout racing were the Arrow, Bohemian and Hyepus. the Arrow and Hyepus allowing the Pohemian 10 minutes start. The Arrow won from the Bohemian by one minute, the Hyepus not being able to gain on the Bohemian at all. Her poor showing was probably due to a foul bottom. Course No. 9, around the Beaver Tail bell buoy to the south end of Goat Island, was sailed.

The 15-footers and the catboats sailed over the usual Dumpling to Bishop Rock course. The Sachem, last year's champion, won by a small margin from the Little Duck, No. 4, sailed by A. McCloud, being third and last. The Sachem was left at the start, but by splitting from the other two was first around Bishop's Rock. She worked the Rose Island shore and secured a favorable slant off the beach. The finish between the Little Duck and No. 4 was remarkably close, the Little Duck securing second place by two seconds.

Four cats started, the Wabun winning by a minute. She had a large lead, but lost several minutes running from Bishop's to the Dumplings. The Peggy, Mr. Wetherell's new boat, allowed the Pantoufle five minutes over an 11-mile course, from a mark off the Yacht Club pier to and around the spar buoy off the south end of Goat island. However, the Peggy developed wonderful speed when pressed, and easily defeated her opponent. The summary:

PLAYGROUND BASE BALL.

Make-Up of the Three Competing Teams and the Schedule of Games.

Basins Beat the Bigger Redwoods by Playing Together and Hard Hitting.

The banner presented last year by Dr. R. E. Darrah for the boys of the playground base ball league will be contested for again this summer, the series opening Monday. Lenthal won it last year, with 11 victories and 1 defeat. This time there will be three teams competing for the trophy—Basin, Cranston and Lenthal—and their make-up was announced today by Louis R. Chase, the playground supervisor, as follows:

Cranston—James Lawless, John Fornis, Arthur Cottrell, Bartholomew Moriarty, Frank Harrington, John Cottrell, John Moore, Robert Cooper, Andrew Lyons, Edward McManus.

Lenthal—Michael McCarthy, William Sheehan, John Carroll, Michael Welch, Frank Harrington, John Walsh, Thomas Downes, Leo Martin.

The schedule:

Monday, July 10—Lenthal at Basin.
Wednesday, July 12—Basin at Cranston.
Friday, July 14.—Cranston at Lenthal.
Monday, July 14—Basin at Lenthal.
Wednesday, July 19—Cranston at Basin.

Wednesday, August 23.—Basin at Cranston.
Friday, August 25—Cranston at Lenthal.
Wednesday, August 30—Cranston at Basin.
Friday, September 1—Lenthal at Cranston.

A game was played at the Basin Friday afternoon between the Basin first and the Redwoods, a team composed of much larger boys. As shown by the score, it was one-sided, the Basins showing up better than their opponents by reason of playing together well and hitting the ball more frequently. For the Redwoods Barlow was the mainstay, assisted by Shea, Martland and Weaver. For the Basins J. Sullivan caught well and the pitching of James was effective. In the outfield Brooks caught a number of flies which counted for much. The line-up and score by innings:

Basin—J. Sullivan, c.; A. James and J. Sullivan, p.; T. Walsh and Priest, 1b; Coggeshall, 2b; Carr, s.s.; Smith, 3b; Brooks, l. f.; Sullivan c. f.; Beanie and Priest r. f.

Redwoods—Nightingale, c.; Barlow, p.; J. Shea, 1b.; Martland, 2b; J. Cleary, s. s.; E. Baccari, 3b; C. Jestings, r. f.; Weaver, c.; Libby, l. f.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
Basin		0	5	3	6	0	0	0	—14
Redwoods	1		0	0	1	1	0	0	—3

An indoor base ball game played at the Basin playgrounds this morning resulted in a victory for the Basin team over the Mary Street boys by a score of 35 to 6. The make-up of the teams was as follows:

ENDOWMENT FUND NEEDED.

Y. M. C. A. Advisory Board Would Relieve Finance Committee of Part of Its Burden.

The newly elected advisory committee of the Young Men's Christian Association held its first meeting this morning in the Fiske-Collard room. The committee elected Senator George Peabody Wetmore chairman, and in his absence Mr. Hugh D. Auchincloss as temporary chairman. The terms of service for the members of the committee were fixed as follows: For one year, Messrs. H. D. Auchincloss and Guy Norman; two years, Messrs. Arthur Curtiss James and William P. Sheffield; for three years, Messrs. George Gordon King and George Peabody Wetmore.

The committee, after examining the financial and statistical reports presented by General Secretary Chapin, was of the opinion that, for the sake of a permanent, growing work by the Association it would be necessary to have an endowment fund, to endow a sufficient portion of the work to relieve the finance committee of a burden greater that it is reasonable to expect it to bear.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS.

Mrs. Eugene R. Reynal gave a luncheon at the Morrell cottage, and Mrs. James Lowell Putnam also entertained at luncheon, Friday afternoon. Mr. Lispenard Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffer Taller, Mr. and Mrs Charles Hoffman gave dinners at their cottages.

The newly organized Freebody Park Club had its first dinner, at Gunther's, Friday night. The officers are William R. Hunter, president; Reginald C. Vanderbilt, vice president, and Henry H. Ward, secretary and treasurer. The decorations, in imitation of the theatre and grounds at the park, were described in yesterday's News.

Mrs. Ellen French Vanderbilt will give her first large entertainment this evening, having a party of 35 at dinner at "Harbourview," additional guests coming later for dancing.

Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt will give a luncheon at "Sandy Point Farm" next Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Ogden Mills gave a luncheon today on steam yacht Surf. Mrs. James Griswold Wentz will give a dinner tonight at her cottage on Wickham road. Dinners will be given Sunday evening by Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Burke-Roche and Mrs. Clarence W. Dolan.

READY FOR THEIR TRIP.

Elks to Show Many Novel Features in the Atlantic City Drill and Parade.

Final details for the Elks' trip to Atlantic City were completed Friday evening, and when the 100 or more members of the Atlantic City Club and their friends board steamer Commonwealth for New York Sunday evening they will be free of the worriments which accompany the ordinary traveler in many respects. The committee some weeks ago secured 76 of the choicest rooms on the Commonwealth and Friday evening. More than 200 pieces to the members. More than 200 pieces of baggage will be looked after by a special porter who will accompany the party from Newport and attend to their wants while at Atlantic City. The Hotel Sterling will be the Elks' headquarters while at the New Jersey resort and the entire 100 rooms, the capacity of the house, are reserved for the Newporters.

Friday evening the drill company went through the movements which it is expected to execute in the $500 prize contest next Wednesday. The company wore in this drill the costume adopted for the official event, which consists of the regulation navy white mustering clothes—blouses, breeches, leggings and caps. The company will also carry the regulation cutlass, which will be used in the drill.

The lodge badge is handsome and unique, and is in three parts, the top piece being of bronze, modeled on the Elks' head and antlers and bearing the dial with hands pointing to 11 o'clock. The middle section is of enamel bronze representing the wings of a dove with the American flag, and the initials of the order, B. P. O. E., shown. Suspended from this is the third section, consisting of a model of a Rhode Island clam made of German silver, and carrying a picture of the Old Stone Mill. Twenty thousand souvenir cards with the picture of battleship Newport will be distributed by the Elks, and they have also had presented them 500 of the souvenir books of Newport issued several years ago, which they will circulate to the best advantage, although the number they feel should be larger.

The local Elks will be joined on the Commonwealth Sunday evening by the Fall River, Taunton and New Bedford delegations, who will "root" for the Newporters, and will be assisted by Boston and Providence delegations, who will not enter the prize drill contest. Information received reports battleship Newport as being nearly rebuilt and the marine setting finished.

In the big parade Thursday the Newport Elks will no doubt attract much attention by the magnitude of their display and the novelty and correctness of their uniform. Marching 100 strong beside their gallant little battleship, set upon a painted sea; garbed as Uncle Sam's boys, carrying a huge American flag and flying to the breeze a streamer bearing the purple color of the order of Elks, they will furnish a spectacle which it is expected will receive the attention of the judges.

The Grand Lodge convention of the Elks at Atlantic City next week promises to be one of the most important ever held by the order. It will be the first ever attended by the Newport lodge and they are going in a manner designed to be a credit to the order and the city. It is said that the rivalry for the next convention is so great as to bring out an offer from Portland, Ore., of $125,000 for the event.

IMPEACHMENT SUGGESTED.

Gompers Proposes That of Justice Wright of District of Columbia.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Impeachment of Justice Daniel T. Wright of the supreme court of the District of Columbia was suggested today before the Senate "Third degree" investigation committee by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Gompers' complaint was against Justice Wright's course in the Buck's Stove & Range Company's contempt proceedings against the Federation officials.

Gompers told the committee that he knew the Senate could not begin impeachment proceedings and that he did not mean for the committee to take the initiative. "I do know that if we had the recall in the District of Columbia", added Mr. Gompers, "Justice Wright would have been recalled before this."

"I do not think the recall is as good as impeachment generally," suggested Senator Borah.

"Infamous" and "third degree methods" were terms used by President Gompers in denouncing the arrest of McNamara and other leading labor leaders at Indianapolis last April. He said the Indianapolis arrest was apparently "staged," one newspaper "having the story of the arrest set up" and the edition held up "until the arrests could be pulled off."

He claimed McNamara was taken before a court which, instead of inquiring whether he was a fugitive from justice, merely investigated the personal identity of the prisoner. The witness said McNamara was denied counsel and removed to California over so many railroads that he could not be released on habeas corpus proceedings. "There is not a man in the United States except a working man against whom such outrages would be committed," declared Mr. Gompers. He compared the McNamara arrest proceedings with the diverso proceedings of the rich.

ON RUN TO BOOTHBAY.

Eastern Yacht Club Fleet Leaves Portland Before Noon.

PORTLAND, Maine, July 8.—After yesterday's long day from Marblehead the Eastern Yacht Club fleet did not hurry today in getting away in the second run of the cruise to Boothbay. It was just as well that there was no early start for the wind at quarters today was up and down the mast and as one old tar remarked "there was lots of it."

Thirty one yachts hoisted their signal flags when the morning gun boomed from the flagship Emerald. This included 16 schooners, six sloops, two yawls, a ketch and six steam yachts, a fleet which was about the average for the past six years, but with an unusual number of two sticklers. Commodore Clark delayed starting his squadron until after 10 o'clock, as it was not planned to send the racing portion of the fleet away from Witch Rock until shortly before noon. The course today lay round Old Seguin Island with a finish in Sheepscot bay, off the Cuckold's light, and a welcome harbor at Boothbay harbor for the night. Most of the yachtsmen spent the forenoon in visiting and talking over the yachts' interesting run from Marblehead.

A Comet With Visible Tail Reported from Lick Observatory.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 8.—A comet with a visible tail, and that may be observed with opera glasses, is reported to the Harvard observatory by Professor R. G. Aitken of Lick observatory, who says that the comet was observed by its discoverer, Astronomer Kiess of the Kiel, Germany, observatory, on the night of July 6. The comet was seen in right ascension 4 hours, 51 minutes and 51.3 seconds, declination plus 35 degrees, 15 minutes, 2 seconds. The comet is moving in a southwesterly direction.

—Professor and Mrs. Raphael Pumpelly will spend the summer at their cottage at Dublin, N. H.

—Mr. James B. Duke of New York has arrived at "The Orchard." His family is expected early in the week.

—Mr. Alfred White, who has been visiting his children, has returned to Lenox. He expects to come here in September.

—Professor John C. Mullaly, leader of the Casino orchestra, has arrived and rented the Winthrop cottage on Corne street.

—Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Campbell are spending their vacation at Provincetown, where Mr. Campbell will join his ship later.

—Dr. and Mrs. Conklin are at the Corson Cottage for the season, coming later than usual, due to the remodeling of their New York home.

—Mrs Harry Hemmings of Brooklyn spent several days this week with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Scannevin, on Gardner street.

—Messrs. Elisha Dyer, H. F. Eldridge, J. F. A. Clark, W. H. Neilson and Henry Clews have returned from New York.

—Electrician Sergeant, (first class) John Brewer, coast artillery, recently appointed, now at Fort Adams, will leave July 15 for Fort Monroe, Va., for duty at the coast artillery school.

—The Newport Yacht Club will have its first ladies' night of the season next week. Commodore Caswell has arranged for a pleasant time and there will be music by the Mandolin Club.

—Captain Frank W. Ralston, coast artillery corps, formerly on duty at Fort Adams, now unassigned, has been assigned to the One Hundred and Fourth Company, at Fort Washington, Maryland.

—Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Page of Providence, George W. Richards of New London, C. Parfitt of Philadelphia and C. Anderson and J. O'Brien of New York are registered at the United States Hotel.

—An automobile party of 12, including State Senator Bussell, arrived at the Aquidneck House Friday. Mrs. J. A. Grimes and family of Woonsocket and Dr. Wilhelm Trellnke are registered at the same place.

—Miss Mary Leddy and Miss Mary E. Flynn has been appointed in charge of the Mary Street playground, taking the place of Miss Alice Donovan, who resigned owing to the illness of her mother. Miss Leddy will be in charge in the morning and Miss Flynn in the afternoon.

—There was an after-clap to the thunder storm of Thursday night, at Morton park Friday. One of the trees, evidently struck by lightning in the storm, tumbled over and but for the fact that some adults were looking on and acted promptly a child at play on the lawn would have been hurt.

—The Ruggles Street Baptist Church of Providence will make its annual excursion to Newport on Steamer Warwick next Tuesday. This has been a regular feature of the season in Newport for many years, the church always bringing a large number of members and friends, and it is expected that Tuesday will be another "largest" day at the beach.

—Mrs. George S. Scott has presented a collection of miscellaneous books for use in the new Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association. Senator Wetmore has promised to furnish the library, and with the additions which have been received from time to time the indications are that there will be an abundant supply of good reading matter in the new building.

—The police report this morning was short and non-sensational a man was brought in for sleeping out. He had selected a quiet place and said he was seeking cool air and had found quiet and non-complaining neighbors. It was his misfortune not to stick to his intentions, for he had broken into the tool shed in St. Mary's cemetery, and hence the police were after him. He was given another chance.

—The Outer Fountain Fishing Club has changed its base to the Newport shipyard, where Friday its flagship and dunnage arrived. It has been suggested that a suitable platform—covered with canvas of course—be erected on the roof so that the members could sit and look at salt water without going on board the flagship. As before reported, however, the flagship is big enough for all, and for each to have an individual seat.

RECIPROCITY TALK ONE-SIDED.

Those in Favor of Canadian Bill Will Make Short Speeches.

Republicans Do Not Care to Argue and Democrats Are Eager to Put it Through.

[Washington Correspondence of The News.]

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Debate on Canadian reciprocity is rather one-sided. Such is sure to be the case where a majority is anxious to push a bill through and a minority desires to delay action. Long experience has demonstrated that the way to success in the way of passing legislation in the Senate is to get a majority for a proposition and then sit tight on the job and let the opposition do the talking. That is the way to tire out the men who would defeat a bill by debate.

The Republicans who are not going to vote for reciprocity do not care to talk much in its favor, and the Democrats want to get it through as soon as possible. Consequently the speeches are almost all against the measure.

Several measures put forward as the Democratic program in the House are held up in the Senate, and no one can tell when they can pass. The bill for Arizona and New Mexico, the campaign publicity bill, the re-apportionment bill and several of less importance are now behind the tariff blockade in the Senate. As there will be considerable debate on each of these measures no one can tell when they will get to a vote.

It is the determination of those behind the Canadian reciprocity bill to keep it ahead of all other matters and to force a vote upon it before any other measure is considered. The Democrats of the House do not intend to consent to an adjournment until there is a vote in the Senate on these bills.

Everybody has the impression that there is a great immigration from the United States to Canada. This is true, and it will be greater in the future than in the past. But people are not all going one way. Senator Townsend brought that out in the Senate while talking on the reciprocity bill. Replying to a question from Senator Borah, he said that last year 124,000 people went from the United States to Canada and 94,000 left Canada to come to the United States. The Canadians that come to the United States are from the eastern provinces.

Senator Dixon of Montana has been a near insurgent, but he may now be classed as a real insurgent since he has fought many of the regulars and threatened the New England and other Senators with a destruction of their high protection.

"I am not in any sense socialistic," he remarked recently, "but I do think that a well drawn inheritance tax is what this country should have. The time is coming when we will raise very little revenue from customs duties and the money for the government will come from internal taxes, income taxes and inheritance taxes.

"I would put a good stiff tax on large inheritances and where they mount into the tens of millions one half should be taken as a precaution against swollen fortunes and the menace they are to the country."

Like his predecessors—all great travelers—Secretary Stimson will make an extensive tour of inspection in order to see what the army is like. He will also go to Panama, as the War Department nominally has charge of the canal construction. No doubt he will go to the Philippines as soon as he has an opportunity. He can put in a lot of time traveling if he visits all the army stations at home and abroad.

In a speech on the wool schedule Congressman Martin, a Democrat representing a great wool state, placed in a very embarrassing attitude, told this pitiful story:

"I have a little daughter at home, and she is the only daughter I have. She constitutes my family. She has just attained her eighteenth year. This makes her not only a woman in Colorado, but also a man, and gives her all the rights her father ever possessed and some he does not possess.

"In addition, she has just graduated and had the honor of a leading role in a commencement play and, while I have never had the pleasure of hearing her recite 'Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star,' I passed up all of those things and stayed down here in Washington watching and participating in these debates, all for the final purpose of discussing Schedule K for 30 minutes to a vast quantity of furniture."

The few persons in the House laughed for there was little more than furniture in the House at the time.

"If we must have a Democrat for President," said Congressman Austin of Tennessee, "the Republicans of the House would prefer Champ Clark. He has all the qualities that make good Presidential timber." Then he added, for he is a Republican, that Taft would be re-elected.

SAVE THE HAIR

Newbro's Herpicide Will Do It

No woman should have poor, thin, scraggy hair, and no man need become bald. Poor hair and final baldness are due to the dandruff germ.

Newbro's Herpicide will destroy this little germ and stop the hair from falling. Further evidence of this is found in a letter from Mrs. F. Neilsen, of Tomah, Wis. She says: "I fought the worst kind of dandruff for nine years. I have been using Herpicide now one week, and my scalp is healthy, the dandruff has gone and the itching has stopped. It is the best remedy for scalp diseases I ever saw, and I have seen many."

Don't subject yourself to disappointment and expense by accepting something claimed to be "just as good" as Newbro's Herpicide. These off brands may possibly be good, but why take chances? The genuine and original dandruff germ destroyer can always be obtained. If your own druggist has nothing but "just as good" articles, go John M. Callahan who will furnish you with Newbro's Herpicide and guarantees one dollar size bottles. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

Send 10c in postage or silver for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. K, Detroit, Mich.

ANXIOUS TO REGAIN PRESTIGE.

Yale's Rowing May be in Charge of Graduate Board of Oarsmen.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 8.—The Yale Alumni Weekly announces that John Kennedy, the rowing coach, has expressed his willingness to retire from his position if it is the desire of the university rowing authorities to replace him with a coach who can restore the lost prestige in this branch of sport. It is further stated that the sentiment of old oarsmen is that in recent years there has been a departure from the original "Yale stroke" as developed by "Bob" Cook, and that until that stroke is restored there is little likelihood of Yale being able to hold its own with Harvard. The belief is held among Yale men that next fall the supervision of rowing will be placed with a graduate council of oarsmen who will decide the character of the stroke to be taught. In this event Coach Kennedy will probably be retained and he will teach the stroke which will be outlined by the committee.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Business associates of James R. Keene, the noted turfman and financier, who is said to be in a serious condition in London, from a general breakdown, said today that they had not heard from Mr. Keene for two weeks. It is known that Mr. Keene has been in a sanitorium in Italy for several weeks, trying to recover his health, which has been poor ever since his attack of pneumonia in Kentucky, several months ago. Mr. Keene, according to London despatches, is returning to this country in hopes that he may recover. The financier is 73 years of age.

SEVERAL OF SANTA ROSA'S CREW LOST.

Lifeboat Capsizes While Rescuing the Passengers.

Pacific Liner Aground Near Saddle Rock on Californian Coast.

SURF, Cal., July 8.—Second Officer E. Heuson, and three seamen of steamer Santa Rosa of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, which went ashore at Point Arguello yesterday, are known to have been drowned when a lifeboat capsized while the passengers of the wrecked vessel were being taken ashore by the crew. Early today unconfirmd reports were that a number of passengers, variously estimated at from three to 20 are missing. Owing to the isolation of the scene of the wreck accurate information is not yet obtainable. The four members of the crew all lived in San Francisco.

The Santa Rosa went ashore just before dawn, at the mouth of the Honda Creek. It is supposed that a powerful searchlight used by a gang of railroad laborers, who were working near the wreck, is the cause of the vessel leaving its course, the quartermaster mistaking it for the light of the Point Arguello lighthouse. The vessel lay about 200 yards from shore, near Saddle Rock, where the Yankee Blade was wrecked several years ago. When the boat struck, the injury did not appear to be serious, and Captain Faria, made no attempt then to land the passengers. A sharp wind, rising soon after 4 o'clock, threatened to rack the boat to pieces and hasty preparations were made to take the passengers and crew ashore. At 5:30 o'clock a heavy swell cracked the vessel amidship and at 6 o'clock it split in two. There were 276 persons on board, most of whom had taken refuge in the forward section. It was with great difficulty that the first boat was launched, soon after 6 o'clock. In it were Third Engineer C. W. Brown and a woman passenger. Brown carried a line to shore, and when he had effected a landing, after a desperate battle with the waves, all had arrived on shore. A net was rigged on the shore line and the passengers, women and children first, were taken from the foundering ship, three and four at a time.

The disaster in which Second Officer Heuson and three seamen lost their lives occurred just before the vessel broke in two. A lifeboat, carrying five men, had put out when heavy seas sent it crashing against the hull of the vessel. One seaman succeeded in swimming ashore, but his four companions perished. Efforts had been made early in the day by the officers of steamer Helen P. Drew, to induce the captain of the Santa Rosa to land his passengers and the Drew still stood by in an attempt to aid the distressed vessel. A lifeboat was launched, but it had hardly been caught by the waves before it was capsized and it is believed that First Mate W. B. Johnston was lost.

The landing of the passengers of the Santa Rosa. Darkness had fallen, and were women, was attended with the utmost danger. A life raft containing 20 women capsized off the bow of the Santa Rosa. Darkness had fallen and the searchlights on shore lighted the scene imperfectly, so that it could not be clearly determined whether all the women were rescued. Fires were built from drift wood along the beach and when the drenched survivors were landed they were given coffee and restoratives. A special train took a number of the shipwrecked to Santa Barbara, while a wrecking train took some of the survivors to Lompere and Surf. Because of the confusion attending this forwarding of the passengers no check could be taken to determine the number missing.

Captain H. W. Henderson, master of the Point Arguello lighthouse, expressed astonishment at the grounding of the vessel. "The weather was clear, the sea as calm as a lake, and conditions ideal for the most careless navigator," he said. "I don't see how it was possible for the boat to run ashore."

REPORTS NOT CREDITED.

Rumors of Drowning of 25 from the Santa Rosa Not Confirmed.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—F. S. Barry, San Francisco agent of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, refused early today to credit the reports of the drowning of 20 of the Santa Rosa's passengers. "Our despatch stated definitely," he said, "that only the second officer and three members of the crew were drowned. I certainly think we would have been informed if 25 passengers had been drowned."

NIGHT SPENT ON THE DELAWARE

Taft and Senatorial Party Due in Washington Monday.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—The government yacht Mayflower, with President Taft and Senatorial party on board, which left the Philadelphia navy yard at midnight anchored for the night in the Delaware river, off Thompsons Point, N. J., about 11 miles below this city. At 7 a. m. the Mayflower weighed anchor and proceeded down the river. The yacht will pass out to sea about noon and sail down the coast to the Virginia capes and then up Chesapeake Bay. The Mayflower is due in Washington Monday.

After delivering an address before the Christian Endeavor convention on the steel pier of Atlantic City last night President Taft, accompanied by Secretary Hilles, Major Butt and Senator Briggs of New Jersey, was rushed in an automobile to the Pennsylvania Railroad station where his special train awaited him. The start from the shore was made at 9:40 o'clock, and after a quick run the train pulled in at the North Philadelphia station at 10:50, 25 minutes ahead of the time it was expected to arrive. From this point he was whisked to the Philadelphia navy yard in an automobile, where the Mayflower was waiting his arrival. As soon as the President and his party had boarded the vessel the gang plank was raised and the Mayflower pulled out to midstream.

Seators Penrose of Pennsylvania, Root of New York, Brown of Nebraska, Taylor of Tennessee, Foster of Louisiana, Bacon of Georgia and Overman of North Carolina are included in the party invited by the President to accompany him.

ALL OCCUPANTS ESCAPE.

Hemenway Terrace Apartment in Back Bay Burned.

BOSTON, July 8.—Swarming down fire escapes and over the tops of adjoining apartment houses, 100 women and children escaped to safety today, when the Hemenway Terrace apartment house on Hemenway street, in the Back Bay, was destroyed by fire. The Terrace was a four-story structure containing 42 suites, and the total loss is estimated at $12,000. A report was circulated among the large crowd of spectators that one man had lost his life in the blaze, but the firemen were inclined to believe it untrue. Several thrilling rescues by firemen were witnessed while the fire was at its height.

Starting in the basement from some unknown cause, the flames quickly ascended teh elevator well, and in a few minutes the entire house was ablaze. A hundred women and children were in the house at the time, and finding escape by the lower hallways was cut off, fled to the fire escapes. Some went over the top of the building to nearby houses, while others went down the fire escapes to the ground. Cries of horror went up when two women were seen hanging from the third and fourth story windows. They were Miss Elizabeth and Miss Louise Elliot and were rescued from their perilous positions by the firemen.

Miss Lillian Sennett jumped from a rear fire escape and suffered slight hurts. The apartment house was owned by Philip Bloomfield. Several adjoining apartment houses were scorched.

ANOTHER CONGRESSMAN LIKELY

If Bill to Enlarge House is Passed State will Be Divided Into Three Districts.

[Providence Tribune.]

Congressman O'Shaunessy is of the opinion that the bill providing for the increase in membership of the national House of Representatives will be passed either before the present session adjourns in August or early in December, when the next session begins. That will mean, he says, that the next legislature will have the task of dividing this state into three Congressional districts.

The Congressman believes also that there is a good chance of the act providing for the direct election of United States Senators being passed at either the present session or the one next winter. That measure is coming, he says, and he attributes the demand for its passage to the widespread talk of corruption in the election of certain members of the Senate. The form of the act, he says, is the only point at stake now and after a conference is held between committees of the House and the Senate the plan of action will be decided upon.

There is no doubt, Mr. O'Shaunessy says, that the Congressional district bill will pass some time this year. After that, he says, it will be up to the legislatures of the different states to establish the lines of these districts.

How Rhode Island will be divided will cause much discussion when the matter is put up to the legislature. It seems to be the general opinion that the new district will include a part of Providence, which now is entirely within the First district, which Mr. O'Shaunessy represents.

There has been some talk to the effect that in the election of 1912 an attempt would be made to have Senator John P. Sanborn of Newport run against Mr. O'Shaunessy if former Congressman Sheffield did not care to run. If the act passes increasing the number of Rhode Island Congressmen Newport may not be in this district, and in that event neither of the Newport men would oppose Mr. O'Shaunessy.

LOBSTER LAW CONSTITUTIONAL.

Chief Justice Dubois Says Business Must Be for the Benefit of the State.

Judge Blodgett Dissents from Decision in Case of Newport Greeks.

Chief Justice Dubois of the supreme court Friday afternoon in Providence handed down an opinion upholding the validity of the lobster law. While the opinion written by Chief Justice Dubois was concurred in by the majority of the court, Judge Blodgett wrote a dissenting opinion sharply criticizing the law. The papers in the cases are sent back to the district court in this city for further proceedings.

Five Greeks were arrested here for alleged violation of the law against taking lobsters or setting traps within the waters of this state. Their names were Constantine Kofinos, Thom Crestodolas, James Rafiak, Siumat Deamotares and Sader Saderas. When the cases were before the lower courts certain questions were raised on the pleadings and certified to the supreme court for its determination. These questions involved the constitutionality of sections 1 and 2 of chapter 437 of the Public Laws, commonly known as the lobster act.

Chief Justice Dubois says it was incumbent upon the defendants to satisfy the court beyond all reasonable doubt that the act in question was unconstitutional. It was also necessary to ascertain whether the act came within the police power of the state. It is pointed out that the constitutional rights guaranteed concerning fisheries were first obtained from the king in the charter for the benefit of the people. The term "people" as used in the constitution, says the court, is broad and comprehensive, comprising in most instances all the inhabitants of the state.

"As all the inhabitants of the state, men, women and children, citizens and aliens, are interested in the franchise, and as all cannot fish for lobsters, and but comparatively few do, it is manifest that if the interests of all are to be conserved the fishing must be carried on for the ultimate benefit of the people of the state, and not merely for the profit and emolument of the fishermen engaged in the business, whose conduct in the premises must be unselfish enough to include the interests of those who cannot personally attend to the matter.

"The great majority of the people," the opinion continues, "undoubtedly have heretofore bought and in the future will be obliged to buy their lobsters; therefore it is for their interest to have them plentiful and cheap. And by the immutable law of supply and demand, when unhampered by other influences, cheapness will result from plenty. Without protection from the rapacity of man lobsters inevitably must become scarcer and consequently dearer. This has been the costly experience of all countries where the experiment has been tried. The natural tendency to kill the goose that lays the golden egg is always exhibited when the opportunity is afforded. And when any one, attempting to stay the unsparing hand of the despoiler, suggests that something should be saved for posterity he is likely to receive this interrogative reply: Why should we care for posterity, what has it done for us? After us, the deluge. It is necessary that man should be saved from the consequences of his own selfishness, thoughtlessness and wastefulness in the matter of fisheries. And for this purpose an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

The court reviews at length the reports of the commissioners of inland fisheries and gives statistics to show the beneficial effects of protection by law to the propagation of lobsters.

"It would be of little benefit to the people of the state," continues the chief justice in the opinion, "if lobsters were hatched, cared for during a critical period of their existence and until they attained an age and strength sufficient to enable them to protect themselves against their natural foes, if they were to be liberated without the protection of the law against the cupidity of man."

The court holds that the entire subject is clearly within the police power of the state and that the power of the General Assembly is not abridged by the provisions of article 1, section 17 of the constitution. The court fails to see that the rights of any person have been infringed. "On the contrary," says the opinion, "it seems to us that the greatest good of the greatest number will be advanced by the legislation complained of." The constitutional questions are therefore answered in the negative.

In his dissenting opinion Judge Blodgett says he finds no power granted to the legislature to make such an arbitrary discrimination between citizens of this state who have resided here more than one year and other citizens of this state. "A citizen and an elector are not interchangeable terms," said Judge Blodgett, "and this act makes eligible for a license not only every infant, male or female, more than one year old, native born or naturalized, domiciled in this state, but also every thug and every thief in the community, native born or naturalized, who has managed to elude the vigilance of the police long enough to acquire a domicile of one year in this state, and even every lunatic, pauper and convict of the same description. In other words there is no crime known to the calendar, no past criminal record or other disqualification of any kind provided that the applicant possesses citizenship and has resided here one year. However virtuous the life of a full-grown man may have been in the past, even though he be one of the taxpayers who contribute to the expense of enforcing this law and the appropriation for this commission, he is absolutely disqualified from holding a license and from engaging in this calling until he has resided here at least one year; while, on the other hand, a female infant, native-born or naturalized, more than one year of age is eligible to receive such license, and this distinction is sought to be justified as legislation for the protection of the public and the promotion of the lobster fishery."

After mentioning other defects in the law Judge Blodgett says: "The foregoing objections are not considered in the majority opinion, much less an-

RETURN OF THE ROMANYS.

Opera Company Which Won Praise Three Summers Ago Again to be Heard at Freebody Park.

Three summers ago, during a short preliminary season of opera at Freebody Park, the members of the Romany Opera Company won much praise. Shortly after, Mr. Bevan, the manager, selected a dozen of the principal favorites, arranged a vaudeville offering suitable to the best houses, and has since toured successfully, finding a welcome each season from New York to San Francisco. It is called "A Festal Night in Naples," and is the singing feature of the program for next week at Freebody Park. It is not an opera, but introduces selections from grand and comic operas, popular ballads and songs of the day—really a medley of the choicest compositions of the past two decades. Mr. Bevan, Florence Quinn, Marie Scherzer, Sig. Campana and John Cardo are among the soloists, and Sig. Giacomo da Imola is the conductor. Special scenery and costumes add to the effect, and Shoob's orchestra will be augmented for the engagement.

Nearly every act at the Park next week brings special scenery and effects. The "Great Richards" to whose transformation dances the New York critics have given the name "The Act Beautiful," appears in a terpsichorean specialty which is said to be a captivating combination of art and color. Raymond Finley and Lottie Burke are old favorites with a new act, "Vaudeville Vagaries," a travesty on happenings on "the great white way." Edward Clark, the actor-author who has come rapidly to the front as a character impersonator, also has a scenic production, "Age, Youth and Beauty," in which he portrays widely varying personages. Royer West and Ida Van Siclen are musical merry makers who are to be in Newport for the first time. Frank Gordon and Rose Kinley, acrobatic and eccentric Pierrot dancers, also have their own scenic equipment. Palfrey and Barton, who have cycled and somersaulted the length and breadth of two hemispheres, risking their necks to gain fame and fortune, will present the comedy act which has won both.

MOTOR BOAT RULES.

Collector Has No Option About Enforcing Them—An Inspector Likely to be Sent Here.

It would not be unexpected, by some, if the Department of Commerce should send an inspector into these waters to see how the motor boat rules are being complied with. No man is available at present from the local custom house for such inspection. Owners of motor boats should have the printed instructions for the use of such boats, which will be supplied from the custom house. In fact, the custom house officials have already sent these instructions to all who to their knowledge are owners of motor boats, and if any have not received them Collector Carr or Deputy Walcott will be glad to supply them. It will not do, if an inspector comes around, to say one did not know. This year the collector is expected to report for fine every motor boat owner reported to him. He has no option about what to do.

CAUGHT IN A HEAVY WIND.

Twenty-one-footer Tinandra has been repaired at the shipyard and gone to New York, where she was bound for racing. She was off the end of Cape Cod during the blow Thursday night and had some of the experience which comes to those who round the cape. She was aground, had her hollow mast sprung and damages to other parts of her fittings. Repairs have been made so that she can go on in safety.

She is not the only one which felt the effects of that blow. Two canoeists coming up the Sound were picked up by a coaster and brought into Dutch Island harbor. They forgot, when they boarded the schooner, to take their canoe, containing their clothing, all their available cash and other belongings, and when they thought of it they found that it had been carried away by the strength of the seas and their money, extra clothing and everything was gone.

FOR DRIVER SULLIVAN'S FUNERAL.

The entire permanent force of the fire department, except Captain Wood at headquarters, will parade for Driver Sullivan's funeral, and in view of the high regard in which the deceased stood with ex-firemen for years gone past it is anticipated that there will be a large turnout of former members as well as permanent and call firemen. The places in the fire houses will be filled by call men and others during the hour the regular men are out, so that no district will be without its usual covering.

Newport Council, No. 134, Catholic Benevolent Legion, will attend.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

There was another short delay Friday in the work of changing the ferry bridge in Newport to fit both boats, as the men could not put up the gear. A man from the factory was sent for and arrived this morning, when it was discovered that the fault was with the gear, as some of the pieces were wrong. It is thought that a few minor changes can be made at once and it can be put up this afternoon.

BOYS BACK FROM CAMP.

The members of the Young Men's Christian Association boys' camp, looking as brown as Indians, after their two weeks' sojourn in the woods at Pettaquamscutt, returned to Newport this afternoon. The advance party came over on the 1 o'clock boat, and Mr. Robert Warren, who had remained behind with the rest to straighten up some things in camp, was expected during the afternoon.

DEATH OF STILLMAN SAUNDERS.

Organizer of the Narragansett Ferry Line to Jamestown and the Mainland.

Prominent In the Development of Saunderstown and Holder of Governments Contracts.

Captain Stillman Saunders, for many years manager of the Saunders ferries between Newport, Jamestown and Saunderstown, prominently connected with the development of the last-named place and well known in Newport from his connection with the ferries, government contracts and marine construction work, died suddenly Friday, at Narragansett Pier. He had been in failing health nearly two years, but was able to drive out only a few days ago, his death being sudden and unexpected. He was in his fifty sixth year.

Thomas Willett Stillman Saunders—or, as he was better known, Stillman Saunders—was the eleventh of 13 children of John Aldrich and Susan C. (Gould) Sanders, his father having been born in Newport in 1808, and going soon after his marriage, in 1830, to South Kingston, beginning housekeeping in the old lanhouse on Tower hill. Captain John A. Saunders, with William Caswell, Elias Saunders, Thomas J. Gould, John G. Saunders and Daniel Saunders, settled Saunderstown in 1855 and began the following year the construction of a wharf, marine railway, etc., for the purpose of building and repairing ships, in which business members of the family continue until the present day.

Stillman Saunders was born at Tower hill November 4, 1855, going when a baby to Saunderstown, which had since been his home. He engaged in shipbuilding with his father and later succeeded to the charge of the business, building during his life more than 100 vessels, large and small, sail and steam.

In 1906 he organized the Narragansett Transportation Company, building several ferryboats on the shores of Saunderstown, including the Newport, Narragansett, West Side and John A. Saunders, and engaged in the ferry business between Saunderstown and Jamestown, and between Jamestown and Newport, running in opposition to the Jamestown & Newport Ferry Company. In 1907 he employed an electric vehicle to carry passengers between the ferries in Jamestown and in many other ways introduced new features in the ferry business. He continued his ferries until the present year, although failing health made it impossible to attend to his duties as manager last year, and this spring sold his ferry ships and the Narragansett to the Jamestown Ferry Company.

The deceased was the moving spirit in the development of Saunderstown as a summer resort. In 1889 he built the Saunders House, which won an excellent reputation as a summer hostelry, and erected a number of cottages and the postoffice building on the Saunders homestead property. He was actively interested in establishing the Saunderstown Free Library, assisted in restoring the Baptist Church on South Ferry road, and was one of the largest contributors to the new Baptist Church at Saunderstown.

From 1859 to 1891 he carried the mail at his own expense between Wickford and Saunderstown, and as the position of postmaster at that time was not a desirable one had himself appointed and succeeded in securing a regular mail route. Later he obtained the contract to carry the mails between Newport and Wickford. In this he encountered many difficulties, being obliged at one time to use a launch between here and Wickford, and later to employ automobiles between Saunderstown and Wickford. When he disposed of his ferries to the Jamestown Company he gave up his mail contracts.

Captain Saunders had many government contracts, including that for building the breakwater to the new harbor at Block Island. He met with many difficulties in his business ventures and last summer began to fail, physically and mentally, under the strain of misfortunes and business trouble, and he had been unable to carry on his affairs for more than a year.

February 21, 1906, Captain Saunders married Mrs. Louise de Lancey Rodman Fredericks, granddaughter of Jacob Lorillard of New York and a lineal descendant of Daniel Rudman of South Kingstown. His widow, two brothers and two sisters survive, his brothers being William G. Saunders of Wickford and Martin L. Saunders, a member of the town council of North Kingstown, and his sisters Mrs. Stephen T. Caswell and Mrs. Jabez Giles of Narragansett Pier. He leaves no children.

THE FIRE PUT OUTDOORS.

Department Called to Wilmarth's, Bellevue Avenue, for Burning Rugs and Trunks.

Box 42 rang shortly after 11 o'clock Friday night for a fire which had been put out into the street and extinguished before the apparatus arrived. The scene was Wilmarth's, on Bellevue avenue, where some rugs had recently been painted and laid to dry. It is assumed that spontaneous combustion followed. Smoke had been noticed about the Abrahams block for an hour, when a cabman detected it coming out around the door and aroused others to action. Police Officer Isaac J. Barker took charge, the door was burst in, and the rugs, with two trunks which had taken fire, were pulled into the street and extinguished.

In the meantime, at Lorah's drug store, where they had previous experience with fire, a telephone alarm was sent to headquarters and box 42 was sounded from the universal apparatus. Some went past the fire to go to the box, as they did not think of looking on Bellevue avenue, but when the firemen were directed to the scene they found nothing to do but look about the premises and give assurance that the fire was all out.

Those who reside in the upper part of the structure had the unpleasant experience of being awakened from sleep and beating a retreat through thick smoke. The fire damage was light, but it will probably be found that the smoke damage has amounted to something.

OFFICERS AS STUDENTS.

State National Guardsmen During the Week Have Received Instructions for Coming Duties.

The school of instruction for the Rhode Island National Guard officers having come to an end, the officers today will leave Fort Greble and be distributed about the various fortifications of the bay, where their commands will arrive Sunday for a week's tour of duty. During the week the officers have formed gun crews and done other work of privates and non-commissioned officers about the batteries, that they might gain a better understanding of the duties than when simply serving in an official capacity with their troops. They have been schooled by the regular officers and now are expected to a large extent be the instructors for their own commands, rather than relying as in the past upon the regulars to instruct the gun crews.
